Our Model

The Competency-Based Learning Model (SOMR) was designed by Tamkeen HC, drawing on three decades of experience in talent empowerment and management. We believe in the importance of this fundamental approach for both individual and organizational development as a key

We are confident that no one would disagree with this logical approach. For example, just as building a skyscraper requires a strong and solid foundation to ensure its stability and safety, the development of individuals and organizations also relies on strong competency foundations to achieve success and sustainability.

factor for success.

Don't just manage talent and business, empower it.

Recommended Learning Competencies

What is it?

SOMR is a competency-based learning model. Consist of four consecutive stages are covered through specialized training programs that focus on mastering decision-making, achieving excellence in goal setting, enhancing productivity and performance, and implementing motivation and success strategies according to the following stages

- S Start: This is considered the first and crucial stage
- Organize: This is the guidance journey
- Manage: This is the stage of achieving results
- Reflect: This is the final stage and should be continuously followed.

Why to apply?

The specialized stages and courses of SOMR aim to develop the essential competencies required for individuals to achieve success in complex work environments. This methodology focuses on enhancing the comprehensive capabilities of individuals to achieve:

- · Enhanced Decision-Making
- Goal Setting Excellence
- Improved Productivity and Performance
- Fostering a Culture of Growth for both Individual and Organizational Impact.
